MAN ARRESTED FOR PANDERING

Sheriff John H. Corry Takes Idaho Couple Into Custody
on White Slavery Charge

WANTED BY THE SHER- IFF OF POCATELLO.

It is Understood That Defendant is a Married Man, and the Girl Appears to be About Twenty.

Acting on telegraphic instructions from the sheriff at Pocatello, Idaho, Sheriff John H. Corry of this county yesterday placed E. D. Bush and Morine Richards under arrest, the man being charged with pandering. It is understood that the defendant is a married man, and that the couple have been traveling about for some time as man and wife.

They were registered at the Cedar Hotel when placed under arrest, since which time the man has been confined in the cage at the City Hall, while the girl has been locked in one of the upper rooms of the hotel.

The Idaho sheriff by some mistake passed the Lund station on the Salt Lake Route, necessitating his return from Modena, but will arrive today and take charge of the prisoners.

The couple has been traveling in southern Utah for some little time, coming here from St. George. As the offenders have gone from one state to another, the offense will come under the Mann White Slavery act which prescribes a very severe punishment for offenses of this character. The defendant will face the Federal court judge in the District of Idaho.

GOOD ROADS MAXIMS.

(By J. A. Rountree, Secretary United States Good Roads Association,
Birmingham, Ala.)

All talk and no work will not make roads good.

If you want to know if good roads are good things, ask a horse.

If the roads around a town are bad, it might as well be on an island.

Good roads bring a better school life, a closer church life, a happier social life.

Good roads are easy on you, easy on your horses, easy on the wagon, easy on the harness.

It is to good roads that this country must look largely for future growth and development.

You can have any kind of road you are willing to pay for. The poorer they are the more you pay.

Good roads mean that you can come to town with twice the load, in half the time that you used to.

A farm ten miles from town on a hard road is nearer than a farm five miles from town on a soft road.

Good roads will increase health, wealth, happiness, education, religion, morality, civilization and prosperity.

In considering roads remember that no town looks so good to the farmer that he will kill his horse to get there.

The better the roads to a farmer's residence, the closer it brings his farm to town, thereby increasing the value of same.

Good roads will improve ever condition of rural life; and they will cost you no more than poor roads are costing you now.

Good roads will encourage the country folks to come to town, and will bring the city folks out in the country for fresh air.

Good roads will decrease ignorance, poverty, discouragement, immorality, profanity, back taxes, sheriff's sales and grouches.

State and national aid for permanent roads is sure to come, but it is not likely to come to any community that has, by their lack of interest in good roads, shown that they are unworthy of same.

Go at road improvement with the same determination you would to dig ditches or build fences—with the full realization that it is for your own personal benefit and profit; and not merely a "public duty."

R. H. Benson of Parowan passed through Cedar the fore part of this week from an extended visit in the north.

BRANCH A. C. NOTES.

(By Beth Hamblin.)
Chapel March 2nd.

The greatest treat the students have been given for a long while was the lecture recital given by Mr. Tollestrup March 2nd. Mr. Tollestrup has taken the trouble and time to work up a great masterpiece, "The Appassionata Sonata," for the benefit of the lovers of music.

This piece is considered to be Beethoven's greatest work in the piano productions. Mr. Tollestrup was the first person to plant the Sonata seed in this part of the country and therefore deserves praise for it. Had Beethoven been in the audience last Tuesday he would undoubtedly have congratulated Mr. Tollestrup on his interpretation of the composition.

It was truly wonderful and the many students who were there certainly appreciated the piece to the fullest extent, some being moved to tears.

While playing he seemed to live in the piece and I am sure he was not alone, for the majority of the audience lived it with him.

If ever Mr. Tollestrup plays this sonata again, hear it if you have to walk twenty miles in mud to your knees, for it is worth while.

Coming! The next issue of The Student. This issue will be furnished by the Junior class and will be the best issue this year. It will be published some time about March 10th.

Next Saturday night in the B. A. C. auditorium the Junior class will entertain the Winter Course students. This is to be a sort of farewell party for the class and to assure them that we want them back again.

The debating try-out was held last Tuesday at 4 o'clock. Mr. Woolley and Mr. Bowen were chosen as the affirmative team to meet St. George, and Marvin Terry and Bonner Lambson were chosen as the negative team to meet Beaver.

Miss Parry is having Art I do some stenciling work now. She is certainly giving us a thorough course in every phase of practical art. Not only do we have to paint and design, but we learn how to beautify our homes with decorative articles that we can make ourselves. We also get a knowledge of Ancient art, which is an aid to history.

Presbyterian Church Services.

The regular preaching service will be held next Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the auditorium under the public library.

The subject for the evening sermon will be "Tithing and Accounting." We invite you to attend.

CLAYTON S. RICE, Minister.

383 People Enrolled at 1915 Round-up. The 1915 Round-up and Housekeepers' Conference recently held at the Utah Agricultural College was larger by about 11 per cent than the 1914 Round-up. There were present 383 including farmers, housekeepers, special delegates of Home Economics associations, about 12 champion boys and girls' club winners, county chairman of extension work and 8 county agents.

RECORD-OBSERVER CONSOLIDATION

Publishing Companies of the Papers to be Merged in One
New Corporation.

OBJECT IS THE ELIM- INATION OF ONE PAPER

Agreement Reached by Large Majority of Stock in Each Company, But Official Action is Yet to Come.

April 1 is the date now fixed for the consolidation of Iron County's two newspapers, concerning which there has been a good deal of speculation the past few weeks in local circles. While the deal still lacks official confirmation by the duly called meetings of the stockholders of each company, a very large majority of the stock of each is pledged to the combination, and the formal action will be taken as early as the legal requirements can be complied with. In the mean time, the consolidation will go into effect April 1, under an agreement between the boards of directors of both companies.

It is proposed to incorporate a new company to take over the stock of both existing companies, which will have a capitalization of $10,000. The paper to be published by the new consolidation will continue to be the Iron County Record, and beneath the title on the first page is to be indicated that the Observer is consolidated therewith.

The paper will, of course, be under the direction of the new board of directors, which will be elected from the present stockholders of both companies, but it is understood that C. S. Wilkinson will have charge of the editorial policies, and that Alex. H. Rollo will assume the business management.

Experience has taught that there is not sufficient business here to justify two newspapers, and it will be in the interests of all concerned to eliminate one of them. As a result of the consolidation the new company will have one very complete newspaper and job plant for sale.

There are a number of details yet to be worked out, but present indications are that nothing of a serious nature is likely to intervene to prevent the consolidation from going through as above indicated.

BEE KEEPERS, ATTENTION.

To the Editor of The Record:

There have been a number of bee keepers ask me to write a few points showing the difference between the two bee diseases known as American and European foul brood. And as foul brood is widely distributed in the county, and the county is paying out money to fight the disease, a few suggestions along this line may be of interest to readers of The Record.

A great many bee keepers are continually thinking and speaking of these two diseases as one. I will admit that there are times when the diseases are somewhat alike, but in other respects they are no more alike than sore throat and tuberculosis.

American foul brood usually shows itself in the larva just about the time that it is reeled over. It is impossible to cure American foul brood—you can save the bees but not the comb, because a larva that dies from American foul brood is so much like glue that the bees cannot remove it in its soft state; and before it dries down it penetrates with its spores into the cocoons of the cell until it becomes a part of the cell itself, when it cannot be reached by any disinfectants or removed by the bees. The spores of the bacilla are very resistful to heat and other disinfectants. They will survive the boiling temperature of water for fifteen minutes; they will resist five per cent carbolic acid for sixty days. American foul brood usually attacks only worker broods. You may also find American foul brood almost any time of the season.

European foul brood usually shows itself when the larvae is from two to three days old. Even in its very worst stages after the larva dies from this disease it soon dries up and cleaves from the cell and is easily removed by the bees. The bacteria of the disease is non-spore-producing. European foul brood attacks queen and drone brood as well as worker brood. The disease usually shows itself in the early summer.

To prevent the disease is better than to use the honey, fallen combs, honey extractors, honey tanks, honey bottles and wax extractors contain the bacteria which produces the disease.

In conclusion I will say for all bee keepers to be very careful, and all join hands in helping the county and each other. If we do not do this we are certainly going out of the bee business in a very short time.

Parowan, Utah.

GENERAL CUSTER'S CAVALRY DIVISION.

Recently our attention was called to a description of the regiments composing Gen. Custer's Division of the cavalry organization of the Civil War, as published in the National Tribune of Washington, D. C., which is the official organ of the G. A. R.

Of this command the Virginia brigade consisting of the 1st Lincoln Cavalry regiment of New York, the 1st, 2nd and 3rd Virginia Cavalry. We are informed that Gen. John S. Witcher, Major A. K. Smith and Wm. H. McNeill of Salt Lake City, and Robt. A. Kirker of the New Harmony Coal mines are the survivors now living in Utah. General Witcher and R. A. Kirker were cornered and taken prisoners in the Shenandoah campaign, returned, exchanged and took part in engagements to the close of the war. Mr. McNeill was taken prisoner and was held for several months at Andersonville. All were in active service throughout.

Major Smith and General Witcher were in the regular army for years after the war, and were stationed at Fort Douglas, Salt Lake City, but not under General Custer.

Many of the veterans of this brigade, however, joined the 7th U. S. Cavalry—General Custer's regiment—and were killed at Rose Bud, where all went down in the "forlorn hope" with the lamented Custer.

The Proper Time to Prune.

The intermountain fruit grower prunes at his leisure, but luckily this conforms rather closely to the proper season, when looked at from a physiological point of view. Dr. Leon D. Batchelor of the Utah Agricultural College advises that pruning in the dormant season incites wood growth, while pruning in the growing season promotes fruitfulness; and since trees in a semi-arid climate tend to over bear, it is logical for us to prune largely during the dormant season. If this work is done in February, March and April, the wound heals over very rapidly as soon as growth starts in the spring.

There is also less likelihood of injury from the wounds drying and causing winter killing than when pruned earlier in the season. The work can be done with much greater ease and pleasure when there is a light snow on the ground, than by leaving the work to be done later when the orchard is muddy, making it laborious to get about from tree to tree.

Probably No Visit From Legislature.

The present outlook is that Cedar City will not be favored with a visit by a committee from the present legislature. The weather and roads have been such all during the session that the trip must of necessity have been attended with much risk and discomfort something that it was deemed unnecessary to endure, inasmuch as the branch institution is under the direct supervision of the parent institution at Logan. However, both the local faculty and the citizens would be very pleased to have our lawmakers, or a good sized committee, come and inspect the institution, and the matter has not yet been entirely abandoned, though it is expected that the session will close next week.

Principal Homer of the school goes to Salt Lake tonight to be present at the winding up scene of the session, and if it is at all possible will try to induce the sending of a committee.

Notice the change in the advertisement of A. T. Jones, the agent for Buick cars in this locality. The Buick is a thoroughly dependable machine and one takes no chances in purchasing it.

COMMERCIAL CLUB IS REORGANIZED

Parley Dalley, President, C. S. Wilkinson, Vice-Pres., C. S. Rice, Sec., retary, S. J. Foster, Treas.

In response to a call issued by the president, L. A. Thorley, a representative meeting of members and prospective members of the Cedar City Commercial club was held in the auditorium of the Library building last Wednesday evening for the purpose of electing a new set of officers to serve for the ensuing year.

President Thorley gave a brief statement of the receipts and disbursements, after which he announced that nominations for president were in order.

The name of Parley Dalley was proposed by J. S. Woodbury, and there being no other nominations, Mr. Dalley was elected by acclamation, and at once assumed charge of the meeting, expressing his appreciation of the confidence placed in him, as indicated by his election to this important position.

The nomination of officers proceeded, and the name of C. S. Wilkinson was proposed and unanimously endorsed for vice-president, as also were those of Rev. C. S. Rice as secretary and S. J. Foster for treasurer.

The question of membership fees and annual dues coming up for consideration at some length, a number of motions being offered before one was finally carried to make the membership fees $3.00 and semi-annual dues of $2, the payment of the membership fee exempting the member from dues for the first six months.

The officers of the association were instructed to meet and formulate recommendations for the board concerning the matter of constitution and by-laws, which require revision, and also in relation to the choosing of a board of governors. This they will do next Thursday.

GOOD PROSPECTS FOR OUR WESTERN WOOL

Indications Are That Prices Will Be Higher Than for a Number of Years Past.

Present indications are that Western wool will demand higher prices this year than for a number of years past. News is received from time to time of the contracting of clips at prices ranging from 25 to 30 cents per pound, this far in advance of the shearing. The following was a special to the Salt Lake Tribune dated February 28, and goes to show the status of the Western wool market:

"Dillon, Mont., Feb. 28.—Three wool clips in this section have been contracted for at 25 cents. They are the clips of Moses Smyth and Otto Schultz, both of Madison county, and the clip of Mrs. Thos. Yearian of Sunfield, Idaho, all of which pass through the local warehouse. J. R. Edgehill, representing Hallowell, Jones & Donald company of Boston, bought the first two, while J. E. Hamble secured the Yearian wool for the Jeremiah Williams company of Boston.

"Other buyers who have visited this part of the state recently are Joe Strong, representing Elsmann Bros. and L. G. Holden for Dewey-Gould company, both of Boston. Twenty-seven cents has been offered to local wool growers for their clips, and in a number of instances this price has been refused. Many are holding for 30-cent wool. Craig Cornell, a pioneer sheepman of Montana, stated yesterday that the prices offered at the present time are the best he has known in the thirty-four years that he has followed the industry."

Hon. James Ollerton of Parowan was in Cedar last Saturday en route home from an extended tour of the country, during which he visited with his sons and daughters at Provo, viewed the Panama exposition at San Francisco and San Diego, and other points of interest. He reports having greatly enjoyed the trip. We are always glad to see our older people who have borne the brunt of the battles in the past have an opportunity like this of seeing some of the world and getting a little enjoyment out of the sunny slope of life.

BIG RABBIT HUNT PARTY TONIGHT

Victorious Parowan Shooters Will be Guests of Cedar Nimrods at Banquet and Ball Tonight.

Preparations are in progress for the big banquet and ball that is to be tendered to the victorious Parowan hunters by their defeated Cedar City contemporaries tonight. It is expected that about seventy-five guests, including hunters, captains and guards, with their ladies, will be here to partake of Cedar City's hospitality, and a jolly good time is anticipated.

The banquet will be served in the library auditorium and was scheduled for 6 o'clock, but will likely be at least an hour later, due to a misunderstanding among the committees having the affair in charge. During the banquet, and immediately following there will be a program of short speeches and toasts, including the following:

Speech of welcome, S. J. Foster.
Response, E. A. Burton.
Toast, Parowan's high average, F. C. VanBuren.
Cavalry vs. infantry, C. S. Wilkinson.
Response, G. A. Mitchell.
After thoughts, W. E. Corry.
Soothing syrup, Dr. A. N. Leonard.
Voluntary toasts and sentiments.

Adjournment to Ball Room.

At the conclusion of this short program, the company will repair to the Ward Hall, where a ball will be participated in, which will be enlivened by a few musical selections, including an original quartet by E. B. Dalley and company, and a similar one from some of the Parowan singers.

The Record joins with the various committees and the people of Cedar generally in extending a cordial welcome to our Parowan friends. Accommodations have been secured for all who care to remain here over night, for which there will be no charge.

B. A. C. BASKET BALL TEAM.

Loose Practices Game to Granite High
By Score of 37 to 25, Tuesday.

No word has been received up to the time of going to press today in relation to the outcome of the basketball game that was to be played last evening between the team of the B. A. C. of this place and the Box Elder High school team in the state high school championship series, which perhaps does not augur well for the success of the local team, as they would most likely have wired news of a success.

It is learned, however, that they lost the practice game last Tuesday with the Granite High school of Salt Lake City. The fact that two of the local players are disabled, materially weakens the team, and lessens its chances for success.

The March issue of The Student, which is being directed by the Third Year class of the school, is now under way, and will issue some time next week. It will be somewhat larger in size than the regular numbers.

Dr. Leonard had an all night "wake" last Wednesday, and as a sequel reports the arrival of a fine boy to Mr. and Mrs. Berry Williams of Kanarraville.

Mrs. William Smith has been in a very precarious state of health the past several days, and last Saturday Dr. Leonard performed a very delicate operation for her. The lady is now slowly improving, and the indications are that she will soon be enjoying her normal state of health.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Jones are receiving the congratulations of their many relatives and friends on the arrival last Monday morning of a fine 8 pound Buick chauffeur, who we are told gave a demonstration of his accomplishments shortly after his arrival. This means that Papa Trehaner can now take a back seat and merely gather in the money from sales accomplished by the new arrival. It would be wisdom on the part of the local garage men to court his acquaintance.

Mr. R. A. Kirker, the anthracite coal mine owner, spent a part of this week in Cedar City, returning to his properties in the vicinity of Harmony yesterday. He was much disappointed over the apparent slim chance for the Public Utilities Bill, which he believes has a vital bearing upon the development of his properties, as he states that it has been impossible in the past to obtain rates for the transportation of coal and iron from this region that are reasonable and practicable. Utah, Mr. Kirker states, is the only state in the union that hasn't such a measure on its statute books.
